President's Message

by Pete Berger

February Luncheon Meeting

Spring is just around the corner. I hope this message finds you healthy and anticipating the gradual warming of our weather. The February presentation by Col Patrick Donaldson, Commander of the 161st Air Refueling Wing, was excellent and reminded us of the ongoing missions that are taking place around the world in defense of our freedom - missions in which we once participated. Anything we can do to help the past, present and future warriors who have or will be fulfilling those missions is contributing in a very meaningful way.

We also enjoyed a visit by Col Pete Kloeber, USAF (Ret) President of the Arizona Council of Chapters, MOAA, and his wife, Joyce, at our February meeting. Pete visits each of the nine chapters in the state. He offered only positive comments on our hospitality. Thank you, Pete, for visiting!

March 14 Luncheon Meeting

CAPT Peter Lumianski, USN (Ret) who was a helicopter pilot during his 24 years in the Navy, will be our featured speaker. Since 1989, he has been working on establishing a monument to the Cold War by placing part of the USS Phoenix (SSN 702) in Steele Indian School Park, honoring those warriors who served during the Cold War which includes so many of us.

April 15 Scholarship Golf Tournament

Don't forget our annual Scholarship Golf Tournament on April 15! Volunteers, auction items, donations, golfers and sponsorships are needed to make it a success. Contact Jack Farley (412-779-0372) or Tom Sheets (760-213-3705) for information/registration. We also invite AUSA to join us in our fundraising event.

AUSA Top Golf Fundraiser

The AZ Territorial Chapter of AUSA

fundraiser is at Top Golf on April 26. Please see Page 5 for additional information and how to have fun while supporting their scholarship and veteran fundraiser. Our Chapter member, Susan Farrell, is the contact.

"Take Me Out to the Ball Game"

Our Chapter member, Suzanne Taussig, outbid me for John Ady's Spring Training baseball tickets. She is giving them to her son who will be on leave from the Pentagon visiting her. Thank you, Suzanne for your $250.00 donation to our Scholarship Fund!

Mark your calendars now for the July 19th Diamondbacks game. Each year, Jim Cullison arranges a Diamondbacks game for our chapter. It is a great time and a good opportunity to enjoy the fellowship that is inherent in our Chapter.

Meeting and Event Survey

A survey is being generated to secure our members' ideas for meeting times, dates and events. We will send an email with that survey within the month.

VA Community Health Care Survey

Senator Kyrsten Sinema is asking for help. In partnership with Arizona State University, her office has launched a survey to receive anonymous feedback from the veteran community on their health care, in and outside the VA. If you are a veteran, caregiver, family member, or eligible servicemember who lives in Arizona, click here to complete the Arizona VA Services Survey. It takes only 5 – 10 minutes. For questions regarding the survey, please email VAServicesSurvey@sinema.senate.gov

USS Arizona Memorial Garden Open

The Salt River Indian Community was the recipient of a part of the superstructure of the USS Arizona (BB-39), Let's plan to visit soon!

National Legislative Update

by Lee Lange, Legislative Chair

President's Budget for 2021 Released

This following extract is from an article by Richard Sisk for Military.com. The FY2021 President's Budget was released February 10. Included was a proposed 3% military pay raise for the troops, the second-highest pay raise since 2010.

The 3% raise follows 2020's 3.1% increase and is part of a defense spending package with a $740 billion topline. The raise is aimed at giving the military a competitive compensation package to offset the drain of experienced personnel to the civilian sector, and a difficult recruiting environment, during a booming economy. If passed, the raise would go into effect January 1, 2021.

Although one-tenth of a percentage point below the 3.1% raise in fiscal 2020, the 2021 proposed raised still ranks as the second-highest pay increase since the 3.4% hike in 2010. The bump is also in line with the 2.9% increase for civilian workers indicated by the latest quarterly report on the U.S. Employment Cost Index (ECI), put out by the Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics. MOAA has long emphasized keeping pace with the ECI to ensure adequate retention.

The requested increase would keep the pay for military personnel in line with increases in the civilian sector and serve to aid retention, said retired Air Force Col. Dan Merry, vice president of government relations at the Military Officers Association of America. The raise would send a positive message to troops thinking of making a career of the military, Merry said.

Pay Caps Ahead?

Some defense officials have indicated that the latest pay raise could signal the last of the big pay increases as overall defense budgets are expected to level off or even decline, in the face of soaring federal budget deficits. Part of belt tightening could be caps on future pay raises – something we have all too often seen as a cost saving measure.

Arizona State Legislative Update

by Lee Lange, Legislative Chair

The Arizona state legislature has entered its third month of its current session. Two important veterans' issues are being considered by the legislature. The first seeks an increase in funding for six additional Veteran Benefits Counselor (VBC) positions. VBCs are critical to help veterans develop and file claims for disability, pension, and other veteran benefits. SB1044, sponsored by Sen David Livingston, calls for six new VBC's. It passed the Senate on February 4 and was sent to the House for further action. A similar bill, HB2139, sponsored by Rep Jay Lawrence, passed the House Appropriations Committee on February 12.

The second issue, a proposal by Governor Ducey, calls for full exemption of military retired pay from state taxes for some 50,000 veterans in Arizona. This $45M Initiative would be retroactive to tax year 2020. Companion bills have been introduced in both houses of the legislature. The Senate champion, Sen David Gowan, introduced SB1237 was passed by the Appropriations Committee on February 4 and goes to the full Senate for consideration. House champion, Rep Gail Griffin, introduced HB 2676 which passed by a narrow margin in the House Ways and Means Committee on February 19. The opposition at this hearing was significant. Members pushed back against a special tax exemption for retired military, saying they don't hear this as an issue from their constituents. If we want this to happen, we need to let our state legislators know this is important. Contact your state senators and two district Representatives at www.azleg.gov and click on Find My Legislator.

Supporters frame the tax exemption initiative as a work force initiative that Arizona needs to attract more veterans and retirees to meet the demands of a booming economy. There are 31 states that either have no income tax or exempt full military retired pay. Fifteen more states grant partial exemptions and Arizona's current $3500 exemption puts us in the bottom half of states in terms of being tax friendly to veterans.

Governor Ducey was especially supportive of the full tax exemption for military retired pay in his State of the State speech and has included it in his 2021 Executive Budget. But his message is falling on deaf ears in the House – we need to take action now to call, email or visit your Representatives and tell them you want to see HB2676, and this tax exemption, passed.

Personal Affairs

Lee Lange, Personal Affairs Officer

A New Game Plan for Your Taxes

The following is from an article by MOAA financial affairs contributor, Col Curt Sheldon, USAF (Ret). With less than two months left to file personal income taxes, here are some lessons from major changes to the U.S. tax code that taxpayers encountered last year. Check with your tax advisor about the considerations.

1. Should You Itemize?

Last year's Tax Cuts and Jobs Act (TCJA) made numerous changes to the federal tax code. Under the TCJA, the standard deduction essentially doubled for most taxpayers. Many states didn't follow suit but AZ legislators made Arizona a "conforming" state meaning the standard deduction for married filing jointly is $24,000 for both. But Arizona allows you to take the federal standard deduction and still itemize on your state return. You might want to do this because Arizona allows different deductions than on the federal return.

If you pay state income tax and have combined deductions close to the standard deduction, calculate your taxes both ways.

2. Consider Deducting Sales Tax Instead of Income Tax

If you itemize your deductions, you have the option of choosing to claim your state income tax paid or an estimate of state sales tax paid. For most retired officers active duty who pay income tax, the sales tax deduction will be less than the income tax deduction. If that is the case, you might want to consider taking the sales tax deduction anyway.

Under the old tax law, that didn't necessarily make sense. Under the TCJA, it might due to the limitation on property tax deductions. You can only deduct up to $10,000 in property taxes. If you pay a lot in property taxes, you might be close to that limit and claiming the sales tax might get you to $10,000.

What difference does it make? Well, state income tax refunds are taxable income, if you take a deduction for paying them. If you deduct sales tax instead, your state income tax refund will not be taxable. To get the maximum sales tax deduction, include your tax-free income in the calculation of the sales tax deduction. Active duty servicemembers will want to include Basic Allowance for Housing and Basic Allowance for Subsistence. Retired officers will want to include any VA disability compensation. What if the sales tax won't get you to the $10,000 limit? Then you should probably claim the income tax.

3. Should You Claim Your Child as a Dependent?

One of the big things that changed with the TCJA was the elimination of exemptions. To refresh your memory, an exemption was approximately a $4,000 deduction from income for yourself, your spouse, and each dependent on your tax return. The exemption was replaced with a $2,000 tax credit for children under age 17 and $500 for other dependents.

When your children are young, there isn't really any argument about whether they are your dependents or not. But once they head off to college, it becomes a little more blurry. Why should you want to get your child off your tax return? There are a couple of reasons: Your child in college might qualify for certain tax credits. This means your child could get a refund of income taxes greater than what was withheld from pay. If your child has investment income, as a dependent that income will likely be taxed at a higher rate than if your child is not a dependent.

You can't just arbitrarily decide that your child isn't a dependent. If attending college and under age 24, your child is not your dependent if he provided more than half of his support. Determining support is a little complicated. But if you think your family's tax burden might decrease by not claiming a child as a dependent, talk to your tax advisor.

4. Make Sure You Plan Ahead to Bunch Charity Contributions

While it is a good thing to support charity regardless of the impact on your taxes, that doesn't mean that you shouldn't maximize the tax benefit of doing so. The TCJA significantly raised the standard deduction. It just about doubled for most of us. That means it is more difficult to recognize tax benefits from contributions. However, if you bunch your contributions, you might improve your results.

One way to do this is to contribute every other year. Say your deductions — excluding charitable contributions — add up to $20,000 and you file as a married couple. Let's also assume you routinely give $6,000 a year to your favorite charity. Add the two together, and you have $26,000 in itemized deductions.

But what if you went to your charity and said, "I'm going to support you like I always do, but instead of giving you $6,000 this year, I'm going to give you $12,000 in January." Now you have $32,000 in itemized deductions. How much would you save in taxes? Talk to your tax advisor. If you routinely support charity, you might want to use this approach.

Reducing Veteran Suicides

During his remarks at our February luncheon, Colonel Patrick Donaldson, Commander of the 161st Air Refueling Wing of the Arizona Air National Guard, spoke about the vexing problem of military and Veteran suicides. Ironically, the Board of Directors planned to address this issue during our program. Tom Sheets also spoke of the Southwest Veterans Foundation 2020 Veteran Suicide Prevention Campaign known as $20 to Reduce the 20 in 2020. The goal of this program is to raise $100,000 in 2020 to help fight Veteran suicides.

For those who could not make the luncheon: 20 Veterans commit suicide daily and 70% of them were not in the VA care system. Arizona has the 6th highest rate of Veteran suicides. Numerous members and guests contributed to this campaign that will continue throughout 2020. The funds raised will be provided in the form of grants to organizations working to prevent Veteran suicides.

If you would like to contribute, you can do so at any of our MOAA luncheons, or by mailing a check made payable to SWVF to: 3820 W. Happy Valley Rd #141-455, or on the SWVF website at <https://swvcc.org/savealife/>, or by calling 602.677.2961. The Southwest Veterans Foundation sincerely thanks those who have already contributed and hope others will want to help.

Reduce the 20 in 2020.

Col Patrick Donaldson commands the 161st Air Refueling Wing based at Phoenix Sky Harbor Airport. Air Guard pilots are airline pilots and other professionals and serve up to 150 days a year supporting active duty missions. The Air Guard is part of the National Guard whose origins date back to our founding fathers, who did not want large standing armies, and thought the idea of citizens soldiers in state militias was important to our national defense. Today, every state has a National Guard funded largely by the federal government.

Global security needs require projecting air power and that means tanker support. The air refueling capability is a key part of going to war and when National Guard units are activated, the public quickly becomes aware. This means the President must be able to make his case for activating forces. Resources in the National Guard provide plenty of “bang for the buck”. The National Guard is six percent of the Defense budget and provides 35% of America’s combat power. The KC-135 tanker flown by the Guard is very old but remains capable with newer engines and avionics. The 161st Wing supports numerous air bases in the Southwest with just nine aircraft. Hundreds of aircraft depend on these tanker services.

Overall demand for tanker support remains very high. A new KC-46 tanker aircraft is under development to replace the KC-135 and is undergoing operational testing now. The current base facilities are too small for planned future aircraft, so efforts are underway with the Phoenix airport authority to double size of the base by moving other commercial functions north of the main runways.

Col Donaldson took time to note the Air Force and the Air Guard face significant challenges including high rates of suicide and continued issues with sexual harassment/assault. Despite programs and command emphasis, these are still serious problems. It is up to leadership to take the actions needed to give hope to airmen potentially facing these issues.
